HOW TO PREPARE YOUR STUDENT TO GO BACK TO SCHOOL.

If your child could use help getting back into the school swing of things, there are a number of simple things you can do to make the transition easier.

 CALL UP FRIENDS. If your child hasn't seen classmates from last year all summer, now is a great time to arrange a few activities with them. If you know students who will be in your child's class, encourage your child to reach out to them, too.

 MAKE A SCHOOL VISIT. Stop by the school at least once to let your child walk around and check out their new classroom, if possible. If your child has an opportunity to meet staff members and their new teacher (at back-to-school night or in another way), take advantage.

 GO OVER THE ROUTINE. If your summer routine has been relaxed, now is the time to remind your child how a typical school day will go. Start enforcing a reasonable bedtime a few weeks before school starts. Hang a family schedule and/or calendar in a visible place.

 GET THE HOME ORGANIZED. Keep hooks near the entry door to your home where your child can keep their backpack, jacket and other school gear. Have them organize their desk or homework area. Take your child shopping to restock school and organizational supplies for the home and the classroom. Don't forget to buy a new planner for them to use to stay on top of all obligations and assignments.

 DO SOME REFRESHER WORK. The final few weeks of summer, incorporate a little school work into your child's daily schedule, using workbooks or worksheets from last year to brush up on math, reading and other basics. To practice writing, have your child keep a daily journal on the things they did this summer. As you bump up bedtime, include reading in the nightly routine—letting your child choose books from the library.

 SIT DOWN TO TALK ABOUT GOALS. Goal setting can be a powerful tool. Talk with your child about the things that they would like to accomplish or change this school year—academic or otherwise. If your child had any difficulties last year, let them know that you are there to help and want to maintain open communication about school.
